ElDelano.article State Rep. Adam Hattersley introduced a bill on Thursday that would make it legal for a convicted felon to carry a firearm. Hattersley (D-Alexandria) was pushing for the legislation because he has a relative who is a felon and he said the language of HB 620 is broad enough to cover that person. "As far as I'm concerned, the only people that need to be involved in this issue are my relatives," he said. "I am married to a woman with a drug conviction, and I have two kids that are also caught up in that issue." His bill, the Constitutional Carry Protection Act, would allow felons who have completed their sentence to carry a concealed weapon if the person had not been convicted of a violent crime and had not been convicted of a felony involving a weapon. The law would also prohibit felons from purchasing or possessing a weapon. HB 620 was introduced Thursday in the House Criminal Justice Committee.Q: Logic to determining whether the following language is in NP or NP-complete Consider the following language: Let n be given and r be some fixed non-negative integer. Each input of the form $i \in \{0,1\}^*$ is a configuration of n particles with i particles on v_1, \dots, v_r , respectively. The following rule is given. Move the v_1 -particle to v_2 If there are at least $r-1$ particles on v_r (including the current v_r -particle), move the v_r -particle to v_1 . Fix $s > r$ and an integer f where $0 \leq f \leq n$. Does the following hold: If there is a certificate that for all inputs i with $|i| = f$ it holds that there exists a configuration c satisfying $i \in L$, then we can efficiently calculate whether $i \in$
